5. Evaluation process

5.1. General principles

The primary consideration in this recruitment process is to secure the services of a person who demonstrates the highest standards of competence, efficiency and integrity. The appointment will be made based on the principle of proportional alternation among member countries and geographical balance.

Attention will also be given to the qualifications and expertise of candidates already working with the Organisation, in accordance with the IOC Staff Regulations. Recruitment is based on merit and adheres to the principle of equal opportunity, without distinction of race, religion, gender or origin.

5.2. Selection process

After the deadline has passed, the Evaluation Committee will examine the submitted files and review the profiles of all the applicants to verify the eligibility and suitability of the candidates for the position, in accordance with the minimum requirements outlined in the vacancy notice.

Any applicant who fails to submit the application by the deadline will be automatically disqualified.

At the end of the first stage of the assessment process, a shortlist will be compiled, and the selected candidates will proceed to the next stage. Successful candidates will be notified.

6. Assessment criteria

The assessment criteria are set out in the table below:

Assessment criteria
1) Application dossier	Maximum 100 points (candidates scoring less than 60 will be disqualified)
• Education	Maximum 20 points (candidates scoring less than 15 will be disqualified)
• Professional experience	Maximum 60 points (candidates scoring less than 35 will be disqualified)

• Languages	Maximum 10 points (candidates scoring less than 7 points will be disqualified)
• Others	Maximum 10 points

7. Interview

Candidates who successfully complete the first stage will be invited to an interview, which will in principle take place at the IOC headquarters in Madrid. If necessary, the interview may be conducted virtually or by telephone. The interviews will be competency-based, and candidates will be asked to provide concrete and relevant examples of their professional experience related to the IOC's areas of work. The interviews may also include questions on motivation and technical knowledge.

8. Notification of results

The process will conclude with the selection of a candidate for the position. A reserve list will be established with the most qualified candidates who were not selected. The Executive Secretariat will inform the selected candidate and the candidates on the reserve list by email.

Candidates authorise the IOC to use the data and information provided in their application for the purpose of the selection process. Additional information may be requested as part of this process.

The selected candidate also authorises the publication of the recruitment outcome, including their name and nationality, on the IOC website.

An appeal against the vacancy notice may be lodged with the Executive Director within 20 calendar days of the publication of the vacancy notice.

Any applicants who consider their rights to have been violated may lodge a complaint with the Executive Director within fifteen working days of the publication of the final decision. The Executive Director shall take a reasoned decision on the complaint within ten working days of receiving it.

Note: Staff of the Executive Secretariat are not permitted to engage in any paid activities or political activities, nor hold any other position outside the IOC, whether on a continuous or occasional basis.
